Pieter Geldenhuys is used extensively as a futurist and strategist on the global stage by some of the world's top business schools (London Business School, Cornell, Duke). He assists numerous organisations in leveraging their innovation potential by providing them with the skills and insights to be proactive agents in creating the future.

He is the Founder and Director of the Institute for Technology Strategy and Innovation (ITSI). Over the past two decades, he and his team have guided more than 4 000 students and more than 120 innovation projects within the largest technology companies in India, the Middle East and Africa.

He was the previous Technology strategy advisor to the CEO of Vodacom, and Vice-Chair of the Innovation Focus Group at the International Telecommunication Union in Geneva, Switzerland. He is also a nominated member of the South African Academy of Science and Arts, and Chairman of the ATKV.

He believes the only way to effectively predict the future is to create it.
